TNSC Innovation Center Hibikino Opened at Kitakyushu Science and Research Park
—Encourage Collaborative Development of Semiconductor-Related Equipment by Industry, Academia, and Government—

Taiyo Nippon Sanso Corporation (Headquarters: Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo; President: Kenji Nagata; hereinafter “TNSC”), a Japanese industrial gas company in the Nippon Sanso Holdings Group, along with a TNSC affiliate, Taiyo Nippon Sanso ATI Corporation (President: Keita Fuchigami), opened the TNSC Innovation Center Hibikino at the Kitakyushu Science and Research Park to promote research and development of semiconductor-related equipment. At the Center, we will install our cutting-edge products and work on equipment research and development, including optimizing the use of semiconductor-related equipment through joint development with various research institutions. The reason for opening the new facility in the Kitakyushu Science and Research Park is that the Park has a high concentration of semiconductor-related research bases and researchers, and offers an environment blessed with a research system that brings together industry, academia, and government.
